CLUB 64

FOR HUMANITY

A personal invitation

sociisgroup

A personal invitation from

Jeremie Landweer

has the pleasure of inviting you to join

CLUB 64

A private international club for up to 64 people committed to an economy that serves humanity.

Your membership

A place among people who share a commitment to humanity, with room to know one another.

Conversations with fellow members

Two planned group conversations each year, with time to exchange experience and ideas.

Personal introductions

A named sociisgroup contact helps explore connections where both people welcome them.

A connection to the work

Updates on sociisgroup’s work, with opportunities to contribute your experience and relationships.

Belonging

Jeremie Landweer and his mother
The 64, Corinthia Brussels

A shared care for humanity begins with the way we care for one another.

For Humanity

Daniele Crespi, Study of Hands, circa 1628–30
Red and white chalk on blue paper
The Metropolitan Museum of Art, 2015.15a, b

We chose these hands as a reminder that care becomes meaningful through action.

Your membership supports sociisgroup’s work towards an economy that serves humanity,
through culture, hospitality and BEE,
our AI companion in development.

Culture moves faster than governance

Jean Bosco Safari, live performance · 2026

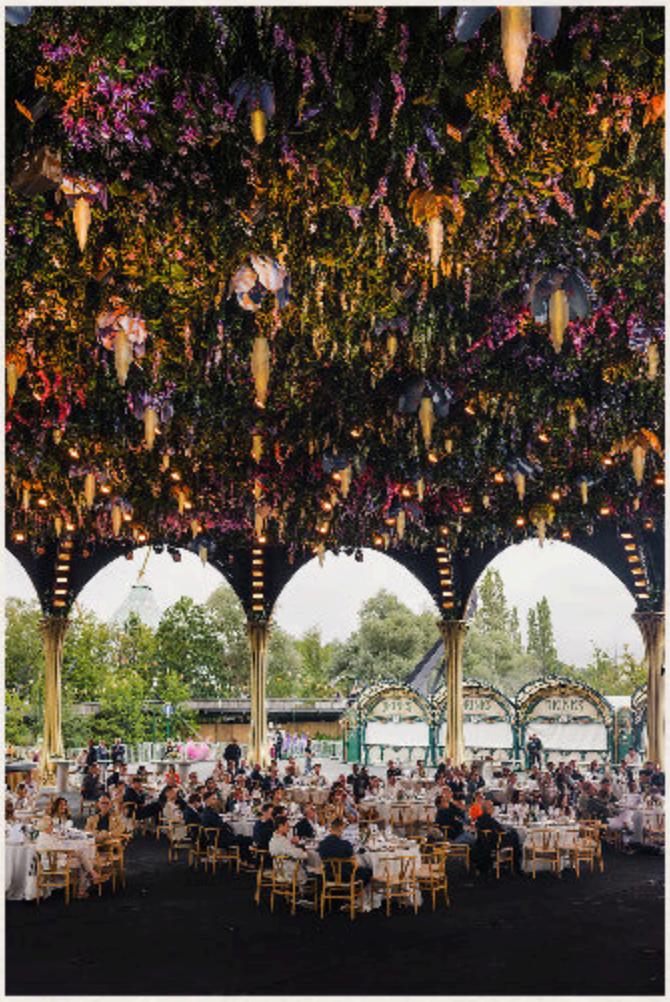
Artists, performers and public figures influence what people notice, admire and choose. Music, film, art, fashion and sport can carry ideas across communities and borders.

We work through culture to turn that attention towards choices that serve humanity.

Culture in action

Joris Beckers

Head of Love Tomorrow
Tomorrowland



The 300, Crystal Garden
Tomorrowland grounds
With Love Tomorrow · 2026

Our collaboration with Love Tomorrow brought sociisgroup onto the grounds of Tomorrowland, where The 300 united conversation, music and film.

Voices from our gatherings

Dr Tessy Ojo CBE

Chief Executive Officer, The Diana Award

“Policies create a framework, but ultimately, it’s about people.”

Leadership and culture

Sarah McArthur

Editor-in-Chief, Leader to Leader

“The focus for SociisGroup to me is leadership and culture and ethics and change, behavioural change.”

Mikkel Juel Iversen

Founder, Under One Sky

Hein Wagner

International keynote speaker and adventurer

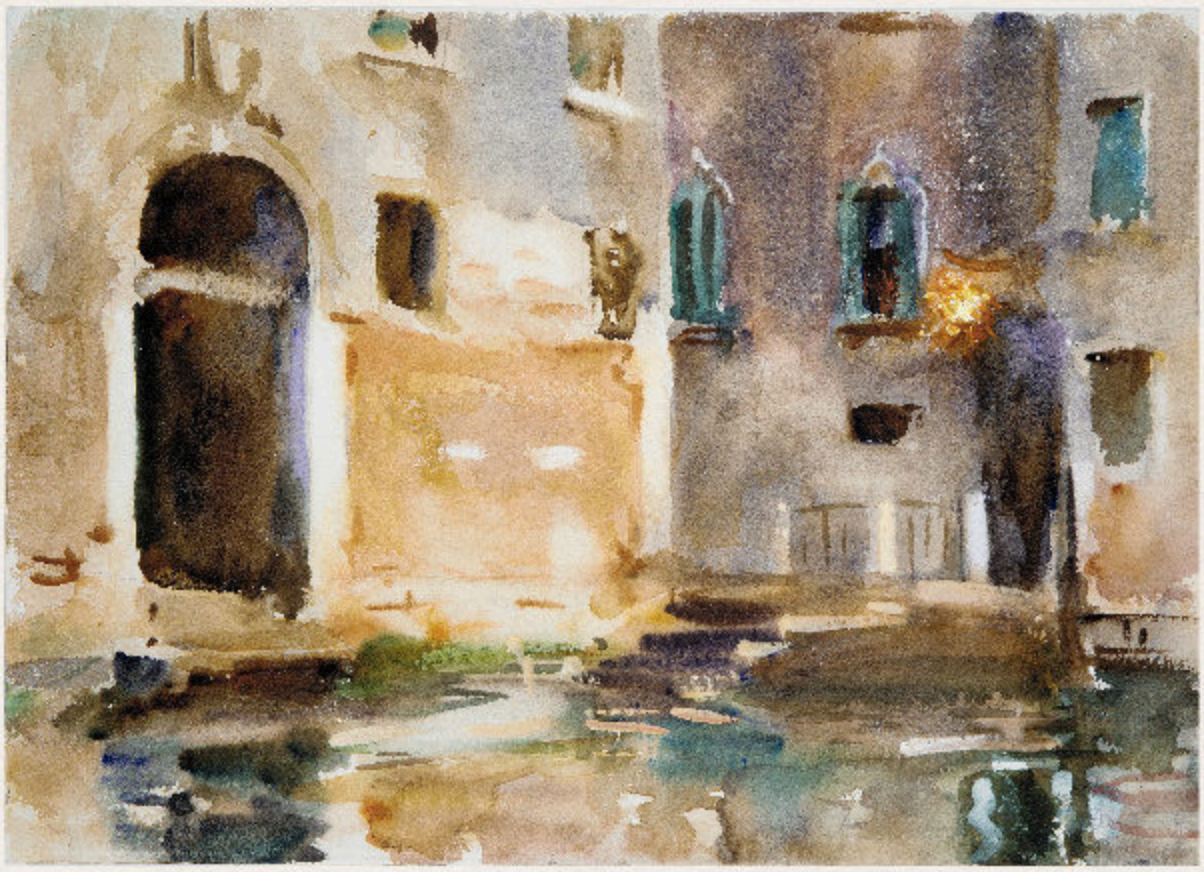
The pleasure of company

The 64 at Corinthia Brussels, 22 July 2026

Our founding gatherings brought people from culture, business and civil society into the same conversation.

We invite people who are curious about others, generous with their experience and willing to put their influence to use for humanity.

Another way of seeing



John Singer Sargent, Venice, circa 1903
Watercolour, gouache and graphite on paper
The Metropolitan Museum of Art, 50.130.37

We chose Sargent’s Venice for its light and attention to place.

Art invites observation and interpretation.
It belongs in Club 64 as part of a cultural life that makes room for different perspectives.

The care in every detail

Giltwork and flowers, Corinthia Brussels

The care we give the setting should be felt in the way we welcome each person.

Giving back

SociisGroup commits 20% of its annual profit to charitable causes.

The organisations we will support

The Diana Award

Empowering young people to make positive change.

Under One Sky

Human connection and practical support for people affected by homelessness.

We Do It Together

Empowering women through film, art and media.

Global Gift Foundation

Supporting children, women and families in vulnerable circumstances.

An invitation to join

It begins with a personal conversation.

Reply to Jeremie to explore what Club 64 could mean for you and what you might bring to it.

Annual membership: €2,500

Following acceptance, you receive the full terms and total payable before deciding to join.

Apply for membership

Each gathering's destination and arrangements are confirmed personally. Event tickets, including The 300, are separate.

Membership is by personal invitation.

Grand Hotel Astoria entrance, Corinthia Brussels

Let us begin a conversation

Jeremie Landweer
Founder & CEO, sociisgroup

jeremie@sociisgroup.com

Contact me